

Dear Amrit

I just listened to your recent podcast interview with Kristina Mand-Lakhiani about Self-Acceptance and Personal Growth. It was marvelous. Honestly, after years of personal growth, I don't often get blown away by interviews anymore, but Kristina and you made it happen.

I'm writing to you because I'd like to suggest my dear friend and employer Derek Loudermilk as a guest on Inspired Evolution. Derek is a quantum business coach, metaphysical experimenter, adventurer, best-selling author, public speaker, husband and father of two. Derek's main mission in life is to elevate today's thought leaders; the people who transform the consciousness of our society today.

A few interesting topics Derek could discuss is:

- How he started his own hero's journey after a divorce, failed pHd and severe brain injury.
- Why he made a bucket list for life with >100 things he wants to do before he dies, and how that process is going
- His experimentation with >50 different energy healing techniques
- His favorite life coaching exercises which he learned from the collaborators to his best-selling book series 'Activate Your Life'
- How entrepreneurs can use metaphysics (e.g. dream time, crystal grids, unified field manifestation...) to improve the success of their business

You can find out much more about Derek on his website: www.derekloudermilk.com

Let us know if you're interested in hosting Derek.

Hope to hear from you soon,

Glenn